Proctor of Vermont Not Satisfied With the White House Agreement.

BEVERIDGE ALSO WAILS

LODGE MAKES ATTACK UPON THE PACKERS.

Washington, June 20.-Senator Proctor today called up in the senate the agricultural appropriation bill, and made the usual motion for agreement to the request for a conference. He then made a statement concerning the house substitute for the meat inspection bill, saying there were essential points of difference between the two houses. One of these, he said, was the omission by the house of the senate provision requiring that the date of inspection be placed on cans containing meat, and the other the transfer of the cost of inspection from the packers to the national treasury. Speaking of the latter change, he said that it was radical, and, in his opinion, unwise; and advised that the house amendment on that point be not accepted. The packers could, he declared, afford the expense of an advertisement, for, looked at in that light, the government certificate would be of immense benefit. Mr. Proctor also charged that the numerous protests which have been coming to the senate on this subject have a common origin in Chicago, and in support of his statement read a number of protests to show the language to be practically the same wherever they may be dated.

Beveridge Agrees. statement concerning the house substitute

Beveridge Agrees.

Senator Beveridge agreed with Mr. Proctor as to the unwisdom of the house changes in the matters of date of labels and cost of inspection, but expressed gratification that the provision for night surveillance had been retained. The two essential changes he considered as most important, declaring that if the date is not to be used it will be possible to pass off as fresh meat that which may have been inspected five years ago. He said that the date was stamped on meat shipped abroad, and argued that the same plan should be pursued with reference to meat consumed at home. Why, he asked, should the people pay for the packers inspection and not the packers themselves, and, agreeing with Mr. Proctor, said the guarantee stamp would be worth $8,000,000 or $10,000,000 for advertising purposes. Looking at the matter in that light, the cost of inspection would not be a burden because the inspection would at the most be infinitesimal—8 cents per head for cattle and 5 cents for swine. It would be impossible for packers to increase the price of meat or decrease that of stock on account of this slight charge; hence, the alarm on this account was groundless.

Packers Should Pay.

The inspection should be paid out of the profits of the packers themselves, and not by the government, the stock-growers nor the consumers. He predicted that the house appropriation would be inadequate to meet all the demands on it, while the fee system provided by the senate would adjust itself to the demands made upon it. He pointed out that national banks pay for their inspection, as do oleomargarine manufacturers, and even immigrants coming into the United States. Hence, the proposition is not novel. If, he said, the packers alone are responsible for the aviated that $10,000,000 a year would soon be required for meat inspection alone. He said the packers alone are responsible for the agrication that had been aroused, but predicted that in the end the result would be a restoration of confidence and therefore beneficial. He credited the prospective success of the measure to the president, who had stood firmly from the beginning for the most complete inspection bill on the statute books of any country.

Lodge Wants Labels Dated.

Prince and Princess of Wales at Trondhjem for Coronation of Wales at Trondhjem for Coronation of the example of the said the packers alone are responsible for the coronation of King Haakon VII and Queen Maud was the arrival of the Prince and Princess of $7,760,209 over the amount carried by the bill as it passed the house. The sundry civil bill a year ago carried $76,152,600. An amendment was for the most complete inspection bill on the statute books of any country.

Lodge Wants Labels Dated.

Senator Lodge also spoke for the sensite provision, although he said it might be considered "audacious to do so in view of the announcement that the house had perfected the measure and the president had accepted it." He pleaded especially for the dating of labels, because the public has the right to know what it is buying. He did not agree that the producers and the consumers would not feel the effect of the tax, for, judging the future by the past, the packers would find in a tax of a few mills an excuse for an increase of several cents a pound on the meat they sell and a similar decrease on the stock they buy. Nevertheless, he thought the packers should pay the cost. He charged the Chicago packers with trying to defeat the Chicago p the legislation.

The attack from Europe did not alarm Mr. Lodge very much, for he said that practices in foreign countries are no whit better than our own. He read newspaper extracts to show that in Eugland rotalso quoted an article from an Euglish review to show that morals in that country are not all they should be.

Scored the Packers.

Discussing the group of men in control of the packing industry. Mr. Lodge said their history has been of utter defiance of law and public opinion. He referred to a recently published interview with Nelson Morris, in which this great packer showed contempt for writers of books, and the Massachusetts senator said the writing of a book brought about the present situation, and it may occur to the packers that "the writing of books is not so contemptible."

The men responsible for the meat packing and Standard Oil monopolies, said Mr. Lodge, have done more to advance socialism, anarchism, unrest and unwholesome conditions in the United States than all of the socialists in the world. He said the people would resent having their food tampered with, and made sport of mere greed for money, and that they are rightly insisting that these packers be put on the same basis as manufacturers of other foods whose products are inspected. foods whose products are inspected. Senator Warren defended the packers Senator Warren defended the packers and denounced as "simply monstrous" the proposition of Messrs. Beveridge and Proctor that they should be required to advertise their business in a prescribed way. He said the legislation is aimed at the farmers and stock-growers, and contended that, instead of taxing them and the packers for the proposed inspection, the entire country should pay the expense.

Mr. Warren had not been speaking long when the morning hour expired, rendering it necessary to displace the appropriation bill with the canal bill.

Dr. Murray, by a roundabout way, summoned Deputy Sheriff Monahan and he tried to persuade the Japs to disperse, but they answered by shooting him, the ball striking below the shoulder, and also slashing him with a knife. Monahan was removed to Dr. Murray's office where he died within twenty minutes. The Japs held control of the town after the death of the deputy for a time but the citizens organized a vigilance committee for personal protection. There were many exchanges of shots but no one was killed or injured, other than the officer.
